

Delivering IT services to the business effectively and efficiently can be overwhelmingly complex as companies try to balance competing priorities. Technology and IT systems are often so tightly embedded within business operations that it is impossible to conduct normal operations without them. An organization's ability to seamlessly refresh and optimize its systems capabilities without impacting their ongoing business operations provides a tremendous competitive advantage.

Ensuring optimal IT capabilities delivering practical, long-term, business value

IT Delivery Management translates an organization's IT strategy into a sustainable reality. Cornerstone and its IT Delivery Management offerings cover a breadth of individual IT services and combine real-world experience with industry standard best practices to deliver real value. Broad service categories include PMO, IT Service Management and Regulatory Management & Compliance. All offerings focus on producing practical results for each of our clients.

Cornerstone's offerings are modular and complementary. They can be combined into customized solutions tailored to a client's needs and current environment. Cornerstone's consulting methodology allows our teams to adapt our approach to the organizational structure and culture of each of our clients while still incorporating industry best practices.

Building upon a strategic foundation until it becomes an on-going operational reality

The rate of change around us is ever increasing and the ability to adapt will differentiate those who will be successful. Responding to change means organizations are continually challenged to reinvent themselves. Partnering with Cornerstone lets organizations effectively develop new strategies and accelerate their implementation while reducing risk.

Cornerstone's IT Delivery Management offerings are organized using a common lifecycle methodology. However, the methodology is flexible. Our solutions are customized to each organization's specific situation and build on existing strengths and accomplishments.

Offerings range from Diagnostics, resulting in prioritized recommendations, through our Design and Implementation offerings that drive a given strategy until it is realized. Alternatively, our experienced practitioners can actively manage and operate a given IT service within the organization. All Cornerstone offerings are designed to provide effective organizational change management so that disruption is minimized. Our approach means that organizations realize benefits as expediently as possible without undermining overall effectiveness.
